

Moths are members of the same family as butterflies. Moths are night time pollinators like bats. They prefer flower clusters or ones shaped like landing pads. Since they visit flowers in the dark, they are attracted to strong sweet scented flowers that bloom at night.